SUTTON BONINGTON

Sutton Bonington is a village and civil parish lying along the valley of the River Soar in the Borough of Rushcliffe, south-west Nottinghamshire and just above the Leicestershire border.

A pretty village to drive or indeed walk through and well served for its size with small shops, two churches, post office, library and coffee shop.

The nearest town is Loughborough and the nearby villages of Kegworth and East Leake also offer a good range of additional facilities including a wider range of shopping and schooling.

The broader location is excellent for transport links, having East Midlands International airport close by and rail links to Nottingham, Leicester and London St Pancras available from Loughborough station.
